Rules of thumb about how much fabric to buy for a project-

Cotton quilting fabric is 40-44" wide on the bolt, folded in half. It is sold in yards. A yard of fabric is 36 x 40”=1440 sq in.

IN GENERAL - Get enough fabric for 2.5 to 3 times the finished area (Height x width) of your quilt because of seam allowances, backing, bindings, etc.

A baby quilt (36 x 36") needs 2.5 to 3 yards total fabric. This is 1 yard for the back, 5 fat quarters (total of 1 1/4 yards) for the front including borders and another 1/4 yard full width (40") for the binding

A lap quilt (60 x 60") needs about 3 yards for the back and another 3-4 for the front and binding.

Quilts that are longarm quilted need backs that are 10" longer and 10" wider than the fronts to attach them to the quilting machines. So a 70 x 80 twin quilt needs a back that is 80 x 90 or two lengths of 2 1/2 yds (90") sewn together with a long seam down the center. Piecing backs with several fabrics is a pretty option.
